The African Immigrants Commission meeting April 19th offered an opportunity for Commissioners to listen to stakeholders in Dayton, Ohio. As the first of its statewide listening tours to hear the priorities of communities and stakeholders such as social services organizations, public schools, city officials, refugee resettlement agencies, among others. Numerous challenges were highlighted by the attendees all serving immigrant and refugee communities in Ohio.

Similar listening tours are planned for Columbus, Cincinnati, and Cleveland, among other cities around the state in the coming months for more dialogue and collaboration opportunities.
